

Young Cornetist To Play At Sunday Band Concert

Parley Rollins
Will Appear
With Musicians

Making its second appearance this season, the University concert band will play at 4 p. m. Sunday in Memorial hall, featuring as guest soloist Parley Rollins, 14-year old cornetist from Parkersburg, W. Va.

The three-part program will include Russian and Italian selections together with an 1812 overture and a descriptive piece, "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Mussorgsky. Rollins will play as his solo, "Carnival of Venice" by Stargers.

Launched upon a career at the age of eight, Rollins has played under Ferde Grofe, Eric Leidzen, Percy Grainger, Edwin Franko Goldman, and others. He has appeared frequently in public concerts, and studied two summers at the Earnest Williams camp at Saugerties, N. Y., where he was concert soloist.

The youthful artist came to the attention of C. V. Maguire, University band director, when the latter was conducting a series of auditions in the Parkersburg high school.

The complete concert program is as follows:
Overture 1812
Exhibition
Carnival of Venice
Cornet solo—Parley Rollins
"Finale" from the Opera
"A Life for the Czar"
Russian Soldiers' Dance

PARLEY ROLLINS
Guest soloist for Sunday afternoon's musicale.

TAU BETA PI TO TAP PLEDGES

Ceremonies Set
For 10 a. m. Today

Ab Kirwan, head football coach, will be the principal speaker at the pledging ceremonies of Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering fraternity, at 10 o'clock this morning in the Union Bluegrass room. The ceremonies will open a week of festivities in honor of St. Patrick, patron saint of engineers.

Activities which will be grouped about St. Patrick's day, Monday, also include initiation of pledges and a banquet next Friday night in the Phoenix hotel and the annual Engineer's ball the following night in the Union Bluegrass room.

The honorary will follow the traditional ceremony of "tapping" the pledges with a wooden sledge hammer to signify selection for membership. All engineering classes will be dismissed for the meeting, which will be open to the public. Vernon Albert, fraternity vice-president, said.

The ball climaxed the Tau Beta Pi festivities, will present a top-notch Southern swing aggregation, Francis Craig and his orchestra. Craig, a native Tennessean, is known as the "Dean of Southern Orchestra Leaders." A New York music critic wrote that "his melody is as intoxicating as Southern fried chicken."

Dance tickets, priced at $1 a couple or stag, are now on sale at the Union information desk. Members of the fraternity and other engineering students also are selling tickets.

V. H. Florence, treasurer, and Stanley Penna have charge of ticket sales and Fred Steedly will make arrangements for the decorations.

This year there will be none of the reaction, brake timing, and question box test apparatus in the Union during the contest, Karraker added.

Full cooperation of the state highway police was secured from Col. C. A. Nelson, head of the Frankfort department, in a visit by Karraker and Sonia Hagenbuch, chairman of the committee, last week, it was announced.

The Bluegrass Automobile club of the American Automobile association has informed the University committee that it will aid in every way possible. Lexington police will also help in the contests.

Several driving authorities will speak to contestants during the week, officials said.

Trophies will be awarded the contest winners at the end of the week. Karraker stated yesterday, and added that no charge is made for any of the tests.

Winners last year were Tommy Bryant, Eminence, and Ida Schoene, Webster Groves, Mo., who took the trophies from about 250 contestants.

Members of this year's committee are Karraker and Sonia Hagenbuch, co-chairman; George Terrell, registration chairman; Ivan Potts, in charge of awards; and James Woodriddle, publicity chairman.

Alpha Xi Pledges Will Hear Murray

Mildred Murray, vice-president of Owens, sophomore women's honorary, will speak on "Kentucky Owens," to a meeting of the Alpha Xi Delta pledge group at 4 p. m. Monday in the chapter house, it was announced yesterday.

The talk is the first of a series presented to the Alpha Xi Delta pledges as a part of their fraternity training program.

Boothe's 'Margin For Error' Will Open At Guignol Monday

Prize to Be Given
For First Solution
Of Mystery Crime

"Margin for Error", Clare Boothe's melodramatic Nazi satire will open for a week's run at 8:30 Monday in the Guignol theatre.

The drama played before record houses during its professional runs in Washington and New York and has been the most popular amateur production for the past three months, Centre Aisle, theater magazine shows.

Clare Boothe's idea of superimposing a murder plot over the satire against the Nazi regime made the play a hit where the other Hitler satires had failed, New York reviewers said. The play was held on Broadway for 243 consecutive performances.

Play Is Timely
"Margin for Error" should be the best-liked Guignol play of the year because it is timely, it is very witty in places, and involves a clever murder mystery. The cast has worked out brilliantly and the staging is the best of the season," Frank Fowler, Guignol director, said yesterday.

Persons connected with the University hold all but one of the cast positions in the fourth Guignol production.

Schick Has Lead
Blaine Schick, assistant professor of Romance languages, takes the leading role of Karl Baumer, a German consul who is also a thief, blackmailer, traitor and shake-down artist.

Harold Dunn, education college senior, will take the part of Dr. Jennings; Jay Haselwood, graduate student, will play Tom Denny; and Frances Bouton, Guignol business manager, is cast as Sophie Baumer, the consul's wife.

Betz Plays Bason
Leslie Betz, professor of commerce at University high school, will take the role of Baron Max von Alvenstorf; Clarence Geiger, dramatics instructor, has the part of Moe Finckelstein, a Jewish policeman sent to guard the consul. The part of Freida is played by Fannie Belle Pirkey, graduate student.

Dick Johnson, law student, as Horst and Frank Kohn, as Captain Mulrooney, complete the cast.

Details of "Margin for Error" have been closely guarded secrets at the Guignol since production was begun over three weeks ago, for the play has a complicated triple-murder plot which must not be known to future audiences.

Actors and stage workers were given strict orders to keep quiet about who kills the German consul. While rehearsals are in progress, windows and doors were watched and no one entered or left without orders, director Fowler disclosed.

Cash Award Offered
Assured that their murder plot has not been discovered, Guignol officials are offering a cash prize at each performance to the person who discovers the identity of the killer at the end of the first act, provided prize claimant has not seen or read the play previously.

Advance clues given yesterday by the Guignol front office were:
1. Every character has a good motive to kill the consul. Each one has a good chance to kill him.
2. No character enters or leaves the stage room after the second act begins.

Secrecy Urged
Audiences at the "Margin for Error" performances will be requested not to reveal the murder solution in order that future audiences may have their chance at solving the crime, it was announced at the theater. The same request has been made by each theater which produced the mystery.

The murdering of the German consul came near causing an international incident when the play opened in Washington. Nazi diplomats sent a note to the state department immediately after the show asking censorship or outright suppression.

But to Sidney Whipple, noted reviewer, "Miss Boothe treats the entire ideology of the Reich government as something which, when the world's sense of humor is at last restored, will be laughed to death."

Benefit Show Planned
A hold-over performance of "Margin for Error" will be held March 24 for the benefit of the University Bundles for Britain chapter.

Student ticket books and Guignol season tickets will not be accepted at the benefit performance so that the entire proceeds may be donated to the relief organization.

Coffee will be served in the lounge between acts of the play by the theater hostesses. Students will usher at all performances.

Technical staff for "Margin for Error" consisted of Clay Lancaster, set designs and are work; Frazier Roberts stage; Marguerite Goodykoontz, properties; Clarence Geiger, technical supervisor; and Howard Moffett, house manager.

KERNEL, UNION WILL SPONSOR FASHION SHOW

Coeds Will Model
Spring Fashions;
Dance To Be Held

The Kernel and the Student Union will celebrate the 1941 debut of Spring with their second annual Spring Fashion show on Friday night, March 21, in the Union building.

The show, to be conducted somewhat similarly to the initial one last year, will be under the general direction of co-chairman Bob Hillenmeyer, Kernel business manager, and Jane Anne Evans, Union representative. Miss Evans worked with the committee of last year's show.

Committees Named
Committees already have been selected to plan the vogue display. The program committee consists of Betty Bottorff, chairman, Lorraine Cockriel, Pat Fenton, and Anna Riesby; house committee—June Mehne, chairman, Dot Hatfield, Lucille Evans, and Junie Robertson.

Wardrobe committee—Helen White, chairman, Louella Barry, Elizabeth Jerns, and Kathryn Lovren; decorations committee—Dodie Nickerson, chairman, Doris Chrisman, Betty Bow Miller, and Martha Obitz; publicity committee—Edna Herring, chairman, Miriam Krayer, Betty Edwards, and Letha Hicks.

Coeds Will Model
University coeds will model the latest in fashionable garments, which will be supplied by downtown stores. The parade of models will descend the winding stairs from the mezzanine to the center of Great hall.

Downtown merchants, who will conduct Spring Style week in Lexington, next week also will arrange displays of men's and women's clothes in the Bluegrass room. The booths will not be open to the public until after the modeling.

The Kernel will publish a special fashion issue in connection with the show. Advice on what the well-dressed man and the stylish coed will wear this spring and descriptions and pictures of styles will be featured in the edition.

Following the show, an informal dance will be held in the Bluegrass room.

PR Will Initiate
Following all night guard duty, pledges of Pershing Rifles, Company C-1, will be initiated at dawn, Sunday, military officials disclosed yesterday.

Fifty-four pledges and 39 actives will leave the University Saturday afternoon for a Kentucky river camp, where they will spend the night.

The camp will be attended by alumni, members of the faculty of the military science department and the company and its pledges. The group will return to Lexington early Sunday.

Little Butter Used
In an effort to determine the quality of milk and butter products used, the investigation disclosed that only 20 percent use butter. All houses serve Grade A milk, but only 85 percent use pasteurized products.

The extent to which the various eating places plan daily meals was studied. The survey shows that 85 percent plan meals a day in advance, while 15 percent plan them a meal ahead of time.

Sixty percent of the owners reported that a health inspector has never given their employees a physical examination. One fourth said that an examination had been given within the last six months, and the remainder had no knowledge about the matter.

Examination Approved
Almost 90 percent of the owners were favorable to the suggestion that all employees undergo a physical examination by the University dispensary.

Of eating places investigated, it was found that an average of 68 meals are served daily, the range being from 400 to 12. Class of patrons ranged from 100 to 50 percent student.

Many students are employed full or part-time in the places investigated, the average being four. Some places give work to as many as 20 students.

Only two eating places refused to cooperate in the survey. Collier reported.

Keys Will Initiate
Keys, sophomore men's honorary, will initiate 16 pledges following a banquet, Friday, March 21, at the Lafayette hotel. James W. Perry, Keys member, announced yesterday.

Pledges probably will be selected early next week, Perry said. The organization chooses its pledge from each fraternity on a basis of scholarship and character.

Legislature Passes Student Loan Bill

Amended Measure
Sent To President
For Approval

LIEUT. COL. DONNELLY

Transferred to Spartanburg, S. C.

MILITARY HEADS TO BE SHIFTED

Donnelly, Barrett,
Sanders Notified

Lieut. Col. Howard Donnelly, Major A. R. Sanders, of the military science department, will be transferred from the local ROTC unit the latter part of this semester. Colonel Donnelly announced last night after receiving the advice from the war department.

Colonel Donnelly will report to the replacement center at Spartanburg, S. C.; Colonel Barrett to the replacement center at Camp Walters, Tex. and Major Sanders to the replacement center at Fort Benning, Ga. Colonel Donnelly said that the transfers are not yet official.

When the transfers become official, Maj. John Brannan will succeed Colonel Donnelly as head of the military department, and Capt. Leroy M. Miles and Capt. D. C. Carpenter will replace Colonel Barrett and Major Sanders respectively.

Captain Miles and Captain Carpenter, graduates of the University in 1928, reported last week for duty in the military department.

Films To Be Shown
Movies on Palestine, the Philippines, Hong Kong, Peking and Korea will be shown at 4 p. m. today in the physics lecture room in Pence hall. This will be the second in a series of movies of the "World's Hot Spots" presented under the auspices of the International Relations club and the political science department.

Passage Ends Long Controversy
Passage of the bill Tuesday night brought to a close almost a year of controversy over establishment of a student loan fund.

The measure was introduced early in the first semester by Jack Lovett, arts and science senior representative, but this form met considerable disapproval from the legislature. Lovett later combined his bill with parts of a similar measure introduced by Doniphan Burrus, arts and sciences senior representative.

The Lovett-Burrus bill provided appropriation of a smaller amount of money and set up a method of assuring collection of loans. The revised bill was referred to a joint committee of the rules and finance.

The joint committee revised the bill and submitted it to Tuesday night's meeting when it was passed unanimously.

Collier Submits Report
James Collier, arts and sciences senior reported findings of an investigation by a special committee appointed by the student welfare.

Alpha Zeta To Give Informal Hop Today

An informal agriculture hop, sponsored by Alpha Zeta, honorary agriculture fraternity, will be held from 4:45 to 6 p. m. today in the Student room of the Agriculture building.

Originally scheduled for the following Friday, the date has been changed because of an agriculture dance to be held that night in the Stock Judging pavilion by the Poultry and Home Economics clubs.

James Collier, who conducted the survey, reported his findings to the Student Legislature Tuesday night.

Don't Get Up In Time
To the four reasons set forth on the sheet as to why one goes without breakfast, 162 stated they did not get up in time, 62 wanted to save money, 31 had a lack of appetite and 6 went breakfastless to aid health.

Low cost second to quality of food in determining the selection of a place to eat. Following in order of importance were nourishing food, congenial company, large helpings, food served hot, prompt service, favorite foods served, and congenial surroundings.

Prices Vary
While 25 cents was the most popular price for meals, 62 persons said they would pay 50 cents or higher, and 109 students were undecided. A survey of eating places disclosed that the price of meals ranges from 20 to 60 cents.

Over 75 percent of students queried eat practically all their meals at the same place. To the question, "Do you think that the Student Government association should list a number of recommended places for meals off the campus?" 85 percent answered affirmatively.

Owners Cooperate
The survey, which was made of both students and owners of eating places, shows that the majority of boarding house and restaurant owners are willing to cooperate with the Student Government association in improving food conditions.

Asked if they would welcome a grading system, sponsored by SGA with experts doing the grading, to study adequacy of nutrition and sanitation, 73 percent replied in the affirmative. However, 69

The whole sequence, with the radio announcer, Hitler's speech, band music, cheering and mob noises, will take about five minutes. It will be accomplished with the use of three revolving discs two amplifiers, a microphone, split-second timing, and two slightly harassed sound men, Keith Lewis and Billy Stucky.

The first act also calls for the tossing of a brick through the window of the Nazi consulate, the setting of the play. Since the Guignol budget can not stand the expense of a broken window for each of six performances, technical ingenuity was again called upon.

Although the audience will see a brick hurtle through the window and hear the crash of glass, no pane will actually be broken, for the window will be paneless. As the brick comes through the window, a piece of glass will be smashed backstage simultaneously.

Hislop Appointed Pistol Team Coach

Cadet First Lieut. Wallace L. Hislop has been appointed assistant coach of the University's new pistol team by Lieut. Col. Howard Donnelly, head of the military department, according to Lieut. James C. Smece, coach.

The team, first in the history of the University, began practice this week in Buell Armory. Approximately 25 ROTC cadets already have reported. From the tryouts a team of 10 will be chosen.

Kampus Kernels

Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternity, will meet at 3 p. m. Tuesday in Room 131, Education building, Louise Wilson, secretary announced yesterday.

There will be a compulsory meeting of the Kernel society staff and the Campus Originals guild at 3 p. m. Friday, in the Kernel newsroom.

Sears Scholarship winner will meet at 7:15 p. m. Monday, in Room 205, Agriculture building.

Passed At Last!

The Vice Of The People

By FRED HILL

As dull as the cinemapppearance of "Tobacco Road," this week in society furnishes little in epoch-making parties, ties or tires of affection.

Only high spots were the Kentuckian party Saturday night and, for us, an open house at one of the mis-leading lodges. In dull times one makes rules, so here are our rules for behavior at open houses by both males and females.

Time: Friday afternoon . . . any Friday afternoon, though for best effects girls should elect a date correlating with their "Hell" or "House" or "Work" week.

Place: The lodge.
Decorations: The sorority's pledges, Juniors, seniors and officers generally never come . . . (smart children!)

Sound effects: Tinny record from a victrola. Any record will be effective (except Artie Shaw's and we always liked Artie Shaw).

Men will spend two hours shining and shaving for the occasion. They go in a body, Indian file, smile, roll their eyes, light cigarettes, enter, and rush for the ash-trays or the bridge tables.

The pledges will be obliged to dance with you, but take our word and don't dance with them. They haven't been around long enough. They're friendly . . . spoil the mood of the occasion. The mood, of course, is not meant to be a happy one.

In all fairness to the Book of Etiquette it is by right the men's duty to entertain the girls. They should dance, hold hands and exclaim over the warmth of their reception. They should ask for dates and be noble at the refusal. They should speak to the regular hangers-on who affiliate for the afternoon . . . just to be around their loves.

They should sweat and smile. Naturally the sisters don't have to worry about these things. After all . . . they furnish the refreshments.

A real "high spot" was the Kentuckian party at the Lafayette studio Saturday night. All campus bigwigs and their lassies were there, dining and dancin' and . . . other things.

It was at an appropriate time too . . . the Lend-Lease Bill had just

They'll Have To Think Up Better Ones Than These

To the Editor of The Kernel:

I am greatly troubled by what you say concerning the "incidents" of the initiation season. Such practices should be delegated to high schools and Elk clubs exclusively and never allowed to darken the Kernel editorial page again.

As to the uniform of bowler, wing collar, ascot tie, monocle, and walking-stick. I agree that said bowler, wing collar, ascot tie, monocle and walking stick is not as comfortable as more plebeian attire, but, as my grandfather always said, women make the clothes, clothes make the man, and God help the women.

Also, it distresses me to spend a night in jail. The reputation that is besmirched in youth can never again be washed clean. I know this by my own experience and to this day I cherish an unappeasable bitterness against the unfaithful guardians of my young life, who not only permitted, but compelled me to attend a lecture on "The Rewards of Virtue," which brought to my attention innumerable pleasures of the worldly life which, up to that time had entirely escaped notice.

Most honestly do I wish that I could say a softening word or two in defense of carrying alarm clocks, but really in my opinion it is a most annoying habit and subject to irate remarks by awakened classmates.

Let us hope, trust, and pray, therefore, that the day will come when such spasmodic aspects of immature genius will relegate itself to more laugh-provoking projects and prove to the alumnus who brags of the "good old days" when every college man was a "heller" and he was the "heller" of 'em all that the creativeness and ingenuity of the modern generation has not declined and that initiation of the pledges, by the actives, and for the students, has not perished from the campus.

LETTER TO A DRAFTEE

(Editor's Note: The following is reprinted from the Miscellany News, student newspaper at Vassar college. Although it undeniably belongs to the emotional school of collegiate writing, we think it is one of the best examples of the type we have ever read. It is easy enough to put into print what university men and women are doing; it is extremely difficult to reveal what they are thinking.)

Dear Johnny:

There's always a first time: your first day in camp, your first night in the barracks, first gas masks, first bayonet practice . . . Now your first letter from me.

What shall I say, that I'm knitting you a sweater, that I'll write every day? When you went away I realized suddenly that something big is cutting into our lives . . .

(When he went away I thought that the draft is affecting permanently the lives of thousands of men and women. There are dozens of us here in college, engaged or in love, or thinking about the future . . .)

Some of them know medical students who may be drafted too. What a waste of resources when 33 per cent of the draftees were rejected for poor health, with our hospitals understaffed and overcrowded. And I remembered that 58,000 soldiers died of disease in the last war, most of them without leaving American soil!

But then I thought "A boy scout is prepared" and crazy things like that, and how a year isn't such a long time, after all, out of a life-time . . .

(But the president can extend the term of service indefinitely, by declaring a state of emergency)

About one particular conscript, in whom I have a kind of vested interest, do wear your rubbers, darling.

(Don't mention the sea of mud in the camps, the overflowing infirmaries, the bad colds, the danger of infection. He doesn't have to be reminded of the Sundays playing poker, the unnatural off-duty life in the nearest town. We mustn't be soft.)

I know the loneliness must be hard, but I'm sure they'll make provision for some kind of recreation. I don't see how they'll ever make a soldier out of you, Johnny. They certainly aren't making one of me. But it isn't as though it were 1917. I know you won't be sent abroad. It's cheering to hear people like President McCracken say that no one should urge us to kill and be killed in the name of Christianity . . .

(I'm glad he wasn't in chapel Sunday night, terribly glad he didn't hear Jesus described as a "tough-minded man" of fibre, strength, and force, and that we believed a lie when we believed wars never solve anything. "It is a misconception common to most Christians that they must have nothing to do with war," that's what he said. And "History is made by men, not by economic forces.") but we've just got to assume, you and I, that we can make ourselves heard, that the pattern won't repeat 1917. There's so much to be done, in housing, in education, for the health of the people. The real defense job of the country is ahead of us. Do you really think you can work for peace in the army?

(What was that they said in Congress the other day? "If it ever becomes necessary for us to fight, we will fight! A country whose boys will not go out and fight to save Christianity and the principles of freedom from the ruthless destruction of a fiend, well, you won't find such boys in America." That's what Senator Austin said. Wonder if Johnny read it too.)

Of course there are people here who are very much worried, who know how it all happened the last time.

(Is it true? The Times reports that the war department has ordered a million and a half soldiers' caskets and four and a half million identification tags?)

Take care of yourself, Johnny. When you get leave I'll meet you in New York, and we'll see a comedy—the funniest one we can find. Right now I have a class. Does it ever occur to you that all this education may be for nothing? But then again, it may be for everything . . .

All my love.

End Of A Long, Hard Pull

The passage of the student loan bill Tuesday night is without doubt the most progressive step taken by the Student Government association in the two years of its existence.

The bill has long been unimpeachable in its intent, which is to convert the idle surplus into a useful working fund; and it is to the credit of its sponsors that they were persevering enough to insist the measure be satisfactorily amended rather than rejected.

We believe the act is now in such form as to deserve the approval of the University administration. We hope that Acting President Cooper and the Senate will give it their careful attention.

However, members of the SGA should be aware that the manner in which the loan fund is administered may make or break the reputation of the association.

It is one thing to pass an act; it is another to see that it works efficiently and effectively.

We think the SGA can do the job. We urge them to go to it.

We Take A Stand On The May Day Dilemma

Sam Ewing, who runs the Kentuckian next door and presides over SuKy whenever it has a meeting, came in yesterday and asked us what we thought about May Day.

"Support of May Day in recent years," he said, has not been what it should, and most of the members of the Circle are in favor of giving up the exercises on Stoll field." He wanted to know what we thought of the idea.

Now, to be perfectly honest about it, we'll have to confess that Mr. Ewing caught us totally unprepared to offer an opinion. It is probably not very becoming to the newspaper profession to have to make such a statement, because newspapermen are supposed to have opinions ready on anything, for anybody, at any time.

But nevertheless, we had no definite opinion, probably because we had never given the matter a great deal of thought—either way. In the past we have always been able to take our May Days or leave 'em.

Mr. Ewing, however, was most insistent. He explained that while the May Queenship and parade were all popular enough, the program on Stoll field had not in recent years been given the type of support it rightfully should have. Besides, he said, it costs a lot of money, much more money than SuKy can afford.

If, he maintained, the Queenship were kept as usual and the parade bolstered by floats partially subsidized by SuKy, then the stadium gambols may well be dropped without anyone being offended. On the whole, he explained, it would make for a better program.

After some thought we believed we saw Mr. Ewing's point, and so we declared ourselves. We took our stand, as it were.

We said we thought his revised May Day would be a great deal better in the long run than the old plan. We urged him to go ahead, and to override, if necessary, all opposition that might arise.

After Mr. Ewing had left—rather triumphantly, we thought—fear came over us. Here we were, supposed to be forming opinions for publication, and we had been completely caught off our guard. Another such performance might even lose us our job.

So as a preventative, a sort of insurance, against possible lapses of memory or lack of preparedness on such matters, we devised a system. We wrote down our opinion on a slip of paper, tacked it on the wall, and labeled it:

THE MAY DAY QUESTION
POSITION AS OF MARCH 13, 1941.

The system may not work in every case, but at least we've got that May Day matter down in black and white.

On Opening A Door For An Ungrateful Woman

UK's coeds, living as they do in Kentucky, "the place where the South begins," are often thought of as being Southern Ladies.

Not especially the traditional hoop-skirted, 16 inch-waisted variety, but Ladies all the same.

As such, they may reasonably be expected to be gracious and have manners that are becoming. UK's coeds, though, have grown a bit rusty on several Ladylike issues. For one thing, they don't say "Thank you" to boys who hold doors for them.

A friend of ours, who likewise is very much perturbed about the State of Southern Ladyship on UK's campus, says the same thing.

And he should know; he's tried an experiment. He held doors open last week for 25 different women. Of the 25, only four said "Thank you." One said "hello". The other 20 simply walked on by without saying anything.

UK's coeds claim they like to be thought of as being Southern Ladies. But acting as they do about door-holding, we can't see that they deserve it.

UK's coeds are most unappreciative. UK's coeds are goons.

Judging from the manner in which Pershing Rifles conducted its "Courtesy Week," we think every member should be elevated to the rank of General. General Nuisance.—B. A.

Valtin's Book Is Thriller

BEHIND IVIED WALLS By ALLENBY E. WINER

Two books which have come in for undue popularity recently are Jan Valtin's Out Of The Night and Carson McMullers' Reflections In A Golden Eye.

The first is an alleged expose of the sinister operations being carried on by the Gestapo and the Russian secret police, written by a man who served both these organizations and who now is hiding out for fear of losing his life.

The second is a morbid story about a decadent army camp in the South and is a psychological study of a handful of pervers who are part of the camp's complement. The work is Carson McMullers' follow-up to what was really a very good book, The Heart Is A Lonely Hunter.

Several reviews we have read about Miss McCullers' second work praise her highly and one (Time Magazine) practically labels her a genius. Miss McCullers is not a genius, nor is her Golden Eye much better than what you can read in a cheap pulp magazine.

One good thing to be said for the book is its finely drawn characters. If the novel is judged only on this basis, then it certainly rates merits. However, there is more to writing a novel than painting characters.

In The Heart Is A Lonely Hunter Miss McCullers failed to sustain—that is, her plot didn't seem strong enough to hold over a length of 400 pages; and some critics remarked that she would be more expert at a shorter novel. In the Golden Eye, a very short story, the plot is negligible and at times it seems there is none at all.

Jan Valtin's Out Of The Night is a personal record of the author's political career in Germany, Russia, various other parts of Europe and the United States. Jan Valtin was once an agent of the OGPU, Russian secret police. Then he became an agent of the Gestapo, the official German purge organization. In between these two points of his colorful career he spied, attempted to murder, was tortured, etc.

Out Of The Night is thrilling, partly interesting, and reads fairly well. It reminds us of a delirious Poe story, "The Pit And The Pendulum," to be exact.

Politically, the book is a lot of propaganda from a man who once connived with the Gestapo and plotted with the OGPU. It is written out of bitterness and therefore is that much less reliable.

Another motion-picture distortion of what was a good book appeared on the local screen last week under the name "Tobacco Road". Erskine Caldwell wrote the original Tobacco Road, a vivid story about the disfranchised denizens of the Georgia tobacco plantations, and the book made a fine impression. Then Jack Kirkland got hold of it and turned it into a dramatic production which was destined, because of its ripe dialogue, to smash all records on Broadway.

After seven years in New York, Hollywood decided to try its hand and, as is too often the case, turned the production into a farce. Stripped of its ripe dialogue by necessity and lacking any social significance whatsoever on the screen, the production is a third rate comedy and ought to have been named something else, such as the "Adventures of Jeter Lester".

Professor Objects To Pacifist Tone Of Religious Week

To the Editor of The Kernel:

An open letter to Mr. Bart Peak, secretary of the University YMCA: In accordance with the request of the University YWCA and YMCA last year and this and your personal request to the faculty, I recommended to students that they attend conferences for religious emphasis. Some of these I attended.

The dominant theme which seemed to be exploited was the doctrine of complete pacifism and non-resistance.

To make personal decisions relative to current world problems admittedly requires religious guidance. To request, however that students attend so-called religious conferences which are principally devoted to pacifist emphasis, without making a fair announcement of the limited field of religious consideration or presenting alternative viewpoints, does not inspire confidence in your organizational procedure or purposes.

Announcing An Aid Association That Alliterates

To the Editor of The Kernel:

The past few weeks have witnessed an unexpected and heartening evidence of red-blooded American patriotism through the birth of a local chapter of the organization of "Bundles For Britain."

Throughout the campus a herd of coeds are frenziedly knitting wearing apparel for the British Tommy. Breathes there a citizen with a soul so dead that he can not admire the select Suicide Squad whose collective fingers click flashing needles even in the midst of an ultramodern marriage forum?

Although the end results of this puri-two-and-drop-one group is of at least doubtful value, we believe that the idea is fundamentally sound. Therefore, with all faith in the tremendous pertinence of the following, we call upon all true and enlightened Americans to contribute whole-heartedly to the A.A.A.-C.A.; or to the uninitiated, the American Association for Animal Crackers to Armenia.

Upheavals in world conditions have brought about an almost complete scarcity of animal crackers in the Near East. By applying the Aris-

Can you do this with your hat?

If you can, it's the wrong hat!

If you can push a pencil into the empty spaces between your temples and your hat, then your hat is wrong for your head. It will never fit snugly—will never look its smartest.

The reason so many hats fit badly is because they are made on perfect oval blocks. Yet Stylepark found that the average head (95 out of 100) curves in at the temples.

Stylepark decided to make their hats conform to the head shape of the 95%. Our new Spring Stylepark hats are Templeform—made on special blocks shaped narrower in front. They fit your head as snugly as a glove.

See what a difference Templeform makes in fit, comfort, and better looks. We have a fine array of new Spring styles and colors—all Templeform.*

DEFENSE COURSE ENROLLMENT NEARS CAPACITY

Training Classes To Begin Tuesday, Meet Semi-Weekly

A few vacancies still exist in the engineering defense training courses to be offered by the University through the engineering college. Prof. D. V. Torrell, head of the civil engineering department, said yesterday. Registration will close Monday and classes will begin on Tuesday.

Students or townspeople interested may still apply for admission. Enrollment in each course is restricted to 25 members. The courses in engineering drawing, heating and ventilating, and applied mathematics each have 18 enrollees at present. The course in concrete technology has 17 and that in the fundamentals of electricity has 16 enrollees.

Enrollees, for the most part, are persons who are now employed, the registration files show. Students make up a very small percentage of the total number of enrollees. All courses, except applied mathematics, will meet each Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Engineering building. Applied mathematics will meet at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday and Friday in McVey hall.

Law Students Hear Report On Statutes

Robert K. Cullen, member of the statutes revision committee, of Frankfort, gave a brief outline of the work that is being done by the statutes group in an address to law students at a special convocation yesterday morning in Lafferty hall. In his outline of the work, Cullen stated that the committee has been seeking to simplify the statutes. The work has been in progress for two years and should be completed in 1943, at which time the state legislature will meet and accept the revised statutes, he said.

Applications Due

Applications for membership in Alpha Zeta agricultural honorary fraternity, must be filed at assistant Dean L. J. Horlacher's office by noon Monday, Ben J. Butler, president, announced yesterday. Agricultural students who apply for membership must be second semester sophomores, and must pass the scholastic and leadership achievement requirements of the organization.

General arrangements for the Alpha Tau Omega Founder's Day banquet will be in his charge.

CHICK SHOW AWARDS LISTED

Cup Is Offered For Best Entry

A silver cup will be awarded for the best entry in the baby chick show to be held under the sponsorship of the Poultry club Tuesday in the Stock Judging pavilion.

A high point cup will be given to the entrant scoring the most points during the show. Silver trophies will be awarded to the best entry in each class.

Awards will be presented to the winners by John Tuttle, president of the Poultry club, at the banquet Tuesday night in the Union building.

Prof. W. M. Insko, head of the poultry department, will be the banquet speaker.

Classes for entries include white and barred Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, New Hampshires, white Leghorns, and a miscellaneous class.

ALUMNUS NAMED ASSISTANT DEAN

G. W. Kingsbury Gets Cincy Post

Gilbert W. Kingsbury, 1933 graduate of the University, has been named assistant dean of the University of Cincinnati Evening college, largest evening college in the nation, it was announced today by U.C. President Raymond Walteges.

The U.K. graduate, given the academic rank of assistant professor, takes up his new duties March 15.

Prof. Kingsbury, a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity and Omicron Delta Kappa, goes to the Cincinnati school after seven years with the Cincinnati and Kentucky Post as reporter, assistant city editor, sports editor and copy editor.

While a student at Kentucky, he was president of Sukey circle, president of Pan-Politikon, member of Lamp and Cross and the Interfraternity council. He also was news editor of The Kernel.

In taking over his new post, Dean Kingsbury resigns as president of the Cincinnati Newspaper guild, a position to which he was elected in January.

UK Physicists Will Investigate Radio-Activity

A Van de Graaff electrostatic generator capable of producing charges of approximately two million volts, as much electricity as is contained in a small lightning flash, is under construction in the rear of Pence hall. It will probably be available for experimentation during the next school year according to Dr. Louis A. Pardue, associate professor of physics.

The generator will be used in the transmutation of chemical elements and can create artificial radio-active substances which are being used in many places for biological and medical studies.

Doctor Parude explained that the physical process involved in the production of such substances will be the subject of experimentation by members of the physics department.

Experiments will be conducted under a steel tank in which the major portion of the machine will be enclosed. The tank, which will be housed in a special room built on to the back of Pence hall, is 14 feet long and eight feet in diameter, and will stand in an upright position on two concrete piers.

Plans for the construction of the generator, which is one of three of its particular design in existence and the only one in Kentucky, were begun the next school year, according to Doctor Pardue said. A grant for the machine's construction was obtained from the state.

Literary Society To Hold Contest

Entries are being received in the All-University oratorical contest to be held Wednesday, March 26, under the sponsorship of the Patterson Literary society, it was announced yesterday by Dan Doggett, president of the organization.

Students may give orations on subjects of their own choice, Doggett said. The award for the winning speech will be approximately $25.

Entries may be submitted either to Dr. Marshall Ketchum at White hall or Doggett at the Phi Delta Theta house. Four p. m., Monday, March 24, is announced as the closing date of entry.

CLUB FESTIVAL SET FOR APRIL 5

French Students Will Present Play

The second annual French festival for high school and college French clubs will be held here Saturday, April 5, Dr. Hobart Ryland, head of the romance languages department, announced yesterday.

Among the festivities will be a one-act comedy titled "A Dame de Bronze et le Monsieur de Crystal," presented by the University French club. Leading roles will be played by Betty Wells Roberts and Harold Dunn. The supporting cast includes Betty Bohannon, Katherine Nichols, George Doyle, and Robert Waite.

Other activities will be French reading, grammar, comprehension, and 15-minute play contests for high school entrants. College contests will be 15-minute plays. A movie, "The Life and Loves of Beethoven" will be shown, and the French club will give a party for all entrants.

High school contests will be under the direction of the American Association of Teachers, and college contests will be directed by the University romance languages department.

Miss Laura Topham, University high school, and Doctor Ryland have charge of arrangements.

ALL-AG BANQUET DATE CHANGED

Annual Affair Set For March 31

The annual all-agriculture banquet will be held in the Ballroom of the Union building Monday, March 31, instead of March 28, as was formerly announced by the Agriculture council.

Two guest speakers will be presented at the banquet. Miss Marguerite McLaughlin of the journalism department will be one of the speakers and the second will be announced later.

Spring pledging of Phi Upsilon Omicron, honorary home economics fraternity; Alpha Zeta, honorary agriculture fraternity; and Block and Bride honorary animal husbandry fraternity, will be held at the banquet.

Winners of the Jonas Wiel scholarship of $100 to the agriculture junior having the highest grades for five semesters and the Danforth awards include two weeks at the Purina mills in St. Louis and a stay at the American Youth foundation camp.

committee which surveyed eating conditions on and around the campus. (Findings of this committee are printed elsewhere in today's Kernel.)

Recommendations by the committee included:

1) Further investigation of women's residence halls, which were not included in the present survey;
2) Request of cooperation of the dispensary for further examination of employees in places serving at least 50 per cent of meals to students;

3) Request of home economics department to place trained persons at the disposal of eating places to guide in meal planning;

4) Drawing up by the Student Government association of a list of approved off-campus eating places.

Two Places Uncooperative

Collier told The Kernel last night that he would also request that copies of the results be sent to all houses investigated by the committee. Only two places refused to cooperate in the investigation, he said.

Dr. Huntley Dupre, professor of history; Dr. Edward Newbury, professor on psychology; and E. S. Good, professor of animal husbandry, were appointed by Bob Allen, SGA president, to arrange examinations of candidates for 1941-42 president and vice president.

James Lyon, Floyd Brown, and Lovett were named to the committee to supervise the election of SGA officers.

The legislators also approved a motion that the SGA bring a speaker to the campus to discuss the "lend-lease" bill, and to give views contrary to those presented by Barry Bingham, publisher of the Courier-Journal, at a convocation in February.

Contract for the 1941 freshman caps was awarded to Baynham's.

High Rifle Score Fired By Graviss

Against teams from Clemson, Pittsburgh, Culver, Louisiana State, Akron, and Louisville, the University ROTC rifle team scored six straight victories this week.

Topping the list of sharpshooters was cadet Harold Graviss, arts and sciences freshman, who fired a score of 388 points. This is one of the highest scores fired on the Army range in some years, Lieut. John Carter, coach of the team said.

The University team scored 3712 points in competition with Clemson collegians, who totaled 2528; Pittsburgh, 3617; Culver, 3689; and Louisiana State university, 367 points. The ROTC team also fired 1891 points to Akron's 1889. In a shoulder-to-shoulder match with Louisville, the local marksmen outscored their opponents by a score of 927 to 915.

The University women's rifle team conquered the University of Louisville coeds by a score of 488 to 443.

GLAMOR CATS TO MEET TRANSY

Court Classic Set For 3 p. m. Today

Hoping to avenge the defeats by Transylvania last year, the WAA Glamor Cats will take the floor against the cross-town team at 3 p. m. today in the University women's gymnasium.

In last year's encounters with the Transy team, the Cats were defeated by one-point margins in the closing minutes of play.

Tomorrow the University team will travel to Cincinnati to participate in a sports meet with the WAA teams from Ohio, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Kentucky.

Events included in Saturday's program are basketball, volleyball, swimming, badminton, and fencing.

Starting players for the Transy encounter will be Doris Reichenbach, Doris Settle, Eloise Rochester, forwards; and Mabel Warneke, Lida Stoll, and Anne Purdom, guards.

In Ohio the Glamor Cats will compete in an elimination tournament at all events. The entire team will make the trip.

Graves In Hospital
Robert Graves, engineering freshman, underwent an appendectomy at 2 p. m. yesterday at the Good Samaritan hospital. His condition was reported as favorable yesterday by hospital officials.

Running Wild

By JOHN CARRICO

The officials neglected to pick any intramural all-tournament teams. So, rather than see any of the players' ability go unrecognized, the Kernel sports department gathered an assortment of experts—men who had seen all of the teams in action.

Out of the mass of players who participated in the tournament, the following teams were chosen by the experts:

Hardin	K club	Forward
Driver	Phi Tau	Forward
Vaughn	Sigma Nu	Center
Owen	Sigma Nu	Guard
Zoeller	K club	Guard
All-Independent Team	All-Fraternity Team
Hill, Hounddogs	F.	King, Sigma Nu
Brooke, Jake's Ind	F.	Driver, Phi Tau
Cluggish, Gravediggers	C.	Vaughn, Sigma Nu
Thornton, Daredevils	G.	Owen, Sigma Nu
Zoeller, K club	G.	Peak, SAE

Congratulations to all these men. Everyone earned his berth on his particular team. And in the capacity of a spectator and as an official in intramural cage sessions, we had an opportunity to see the sportsmanship of most of the men. We'd like to name as our personal choice for the best, all-round sport, Foster Spence:

The germ for an idea to have a mixed tournament in badminton is circulating in the intramural department and is likely to become contagious. We can see only one drawback; when some young lady asks a gentleman to give her the "bird", she might receive a response Bronx style which would jolt her into unbelieving reality.

Seriously, though, opinions from the fraternities seem to indicate that the tournament will go through. Since both men and women take the course as offered by the physical education department, it wouldn't be a bad idea to have such a tournament.

Big news this week in the sports pages will be the results of the regional tournament held all over the Bluegrass state. The winners of these sixteen regions will show up in Alumni gym next Thursday to begin eliminations that will produce a state champion by the following Saturday.

Lexington has an excellent chance to cop the tops in state basketball play in the Henry Clay five. The Blue Devils are almost certain to win the regional title.

Other favorites are the St. Xavier team, which has appeared at the last four tournaments; Tilghman of Paducah whose roster includes the vaunted Jesse Tunstall; and Ashland, oft-time winner of the 16th.

Cows, Chicks Take Rear Seat As Ag Scholars Don Shorts

"I love the cows and chickens, but this is the life," so runs the chant of the boys in the ag college as they engage in practice sessions preparatory to the opinion of the agriculture college basketball tournament Monday, March 17.

Eight teams are entered in the chase managed by Clifford Hardesty and sponsored by the agriculture council. Each team will play three games to determine which teams will participate in the finals. Winners will be given awards at the banquet of the agriculture college to be held on March 31.

The entries include the Dairy club, the poultry club, the 4-H club, Agronomy club, Alpha Zeta, Sophomores, the Teachers, and Block and Bridle. The opening round Monday night will pit the Dairy club against the Poultry club, and 4-H club against the Agronomy club, the Alpha Zetas with the Sophomores, and the Teachers against the Block and Bridle.

Ray Graviss and Cliff Bailey will officiate.

Dribbles

By HAROLD WINN

For padded cell antics, wrestling takes first prize. Take wrestler Ted Cox for example. He lost a close bout to his scheduled opponent, Don Evans, but evened things up when he floored Referee Weldman who called the decision. An irate fan, backed up by a chair, next took on the grappler. Five squad cars of policemen were needed to quell the riot.

Put Ernal Allen down for the old college try. One of Kentucky's most versatile athletes, the Morris-town, Tenn., boy spends the entire school year in one kind or another of "Big Blue" uniform.

Dewey Adkins, 22-year-old right-hander appears the best of the Cleveland Indian's rookie pitchers. Said Hal Trosky, Tribe first sacker,

K Club Wins Tourney Finale For UK Basketball Crown

By JOHN CARRICO
Kernel Sports Editor

Before a meager crowd of 15 paid spectators, which overcame the temptation of the regional high school tournament in nearby Alumina gym, the K club took its second straight university basketball championship from Sigma Nu 29-19 last night in the Gym annex.

In a preliminary game to decide the championship of the B and C leagues, SAE outclassed the ATO's 31-14. The SAE's were in command from the very start and led 16-10 at halftime. Carey Adair took honors for the SAE's with eight points, although ATO's Charley Barnard topped him with ten markers.

Mitchell Scores First
In the main go Billy Mitchell gave the Sigma Nus a brief lead when he dunked a long shot. Big Clyde Johnson, however was fouled by Davis Vaughn and he converted one of three attempts awarded him. Clyde then spun one in from the circle and the K club led, 3-2. Mitchell came back with a crisp to return the lead to Sigma Nu hands. Skeeter Johnson tied the score at 4-4 with a free throw.

Jim Hardin's push shot put the lettermen in the van while the Sigma Nus picked up one on Charley King's free throw. Skeeter Johnson made it 8-5 on a spin shot which Hugh Owen matched with a crisp for the Sigma Nus. Charley King's set shot shaved the K club lead to one point and Vaughn tied it with a charity toss. Jones' and Herbert's long shots and Ellington's push shot ran the K club count to 16 while King's conversion of two gratis throws made the Sigma Nu tally 12. There the half ended.

K Club Regains Lead
Ellington opened the second frame with a side shot which Owen matched. Dave Zoeller pushed one in to make it 20-14. Clyde Johnson scored four quick baskets with Herbert's free throw sandwiched in, to complete the K club scoring. Sigma Nu's last five points came on Wilson's long shot, Mitchell's free throw, and Booth's filing from the side in the closing seconds.

Big John was the top scorer for the contest with 11 markers. Charley King was best for the Sigma Nus with five points. The game was rough throughout with the K club controlling the rebounds on Clyde Johnson's height. King was also best for the Sigma Nus on defense.

Come From Behind
The K club won its second championship of the Independent league Wednesday night when they defeated the Daredevils 24-14. Trailing at the half 11-6, the K club rallied in the second stanza when Clyde Johnson and Junie Jones connected for five points apiece.

Sigma Nu also won its second fraternity crown by besting SAE 25-16.

IT'S simple logic: You get nothing from a cigarette until you light it. For the qualities you enjoy are in the smoke itself. The smoke's the thing.

And those qualities depend considerably upon the way your cigarette burns.

Camels burn slower—definitely. That's a well-established scientific finding. That means Camels give you extra mildness, extra coolness, extra flavor.

Now science confirms another important advantage of slower burning—extra freedom from nicotine in the smoke! And the smoke's the thing!
